CUSTOM HOUSE PRAUDS.

The Great Sugar Case-Action to Recover Four Rundred Thousand Dollars.

The United States vs. Weld & Company .- Tho further hearing of this case was resumed yesterday, before Judge Blatchford. It is an action brought by the government against the defendants to recover $400,000 penalty for a large quantity of sugar ich the latter got through the Custom House, as the government allege, far short of the actua weight, by bribing the weigher to make a false re turn of the number of pounds of sugar included in the importation. The goods in question were imported from Manila, and entered at the Custom House of this city in the month of October, 1868. The opening facts of the case appeared in the HERALD of Wednesday.

Yesterday a considerable portion of the session was occupied in giving formal proofs of the entries and other documents at the Custom House.

Mr. Benjamin Franklin, one of the city weighers, was produced as a witness on the part of the government, and was about to testify as to the weight of the sugar as weighed by him some few days after the entry had been made at the Custom House, when

Mr. Sidney Webster objected to the evidence on the ground that it was irrelevant and immaterial. The Judge said he did not see how the weight of the sugar was material after the entry had been

The District Atterney replied that he apprehended it made no difference whether the sugar was reigned before or after the entry for the mere purpose of proving the fact of the weight. He proposed to show that the defendants the sugar through the Custom House at a weight less than they actually entered it, by bribing the Custom House weigher by a payment of $206 to bring it down to the weight at which they really in the first place entered it. The sugar was weighed a few days after the entry, and it was important to show that the government did ascertain what was the actual weight of the sugar.

and it was important to show that the government shid ascertain what was the actual weight of the sugar.

Air. Webster, after referring to two counts in the declaration, maintained that there was no claim on the part of the government that the invoice was faise. The importants were bound to state the number of piculs of sugar, and the question was whether the entry of the piculs at 1335, was faise. There must be a government standard of bleuks into pounds for the purpose of estimating the duty, and they were dealing with an estimation of duty which was different from inquintion. There must be a government fixed standard, and the invoice of the entries must contain the number of piculs that left Manila, not the weight at New York. It was not claimed by the government that the invoice of the entries must contain the number of piculs that left Manila, not the weight at New York. It was not claimed by the government that the coath was faise; that the carry of the weight was made for the purpose of delirations of the weight was made for the purpose of delirading the government; that the carry paper was taked thereon; and that, in point of law, the entry being faise in part, it was whony faise within the meaning of the act of dongress.

Counsel urged that the equivalent of a foreign weight, like a pleaf of Manila was not fixed by hiw. The bistirct Attorney replied that they did not want to show what the picul was estimated at in pounds weight, but the fact of the real weight and the weight at winch the sugar was sold out by the defendants. The weight was a fraudiscent weight, and in defendants. The weight was a fraudiscent weight of a plant at the time they bribed the Costom House officer to take 66,000 pounds off the actual weight of a plant at the time they bribed the Costom House officer to take 66,000 pounds off the actual weight of the importation, which they got through at a duty less than the duty when should have been paid, That went to the question of knowledge and intent. What better evidence could they pro rect their mistake, but withdrew the sugar on withdrawal entries.

Counsel contended that if this testimony were admitted the witness would be giving evidence of something subsequent to the date of the entry. There were two kinds of weight—actual and nominal weight—and the standard of weight in this case did not throw any light on what was the amount of sugar weighed by the weighers.

Some discussion followed as to the actual standard of a bicut of Mamia, in some places it being estimated at 183½ pounds, in others at 180 and 142. It appeared, in fact, that there was no regular standard for it, according to law, though custom, as inid down in ogden's farm and Commercial dictionals. Would go to show a kind of recognized rule respecting it in different localities.

The inagernied that the evidence offered by the government, at the present stage of the case, was inadmissible, as no foundation had been fail for.

After some farther evidence had been offered the
